How Can 1? By ANNE ASHLEY

Q. How can I repair chipped places on porcelain or enameled sinks and stoves?

A. Try making your own patching compound by buying at an artist's supply store some paint that's used on chinaware. It comes in powdered form. Also, buy the liquid they sell for putting a glaze over what is painted. Mix the powder with the liquid to a thick paste of putty-like consisplaces, smooth out, and the job picked up $625 at Toronto. Q. When hanging a new door, how can I make easier the job of keeping the proper amount of clearance under the door?

A. Before screwing your hinges into place, rest the bottom of the door on several thicknesses of newspaper laid between it and the threshold. Then attack your hinges, remove the paper, and your door should move freely.

Youth Guilty In Murder Of Former Skier

RENO, Nev. (AP) - Thomas Lee Bean faced death in the Nevada gas chamber after being convicted of first degree murder Monday in the April 5 dismemberment-slaying of Sonja McCas-kie, 24, former Olympic skier. The 18-yaar-old high school youth, described at his trial as a rejected, unloved boy, stared at the jury foreman, Joseph Dettling, as the death penalty recommendation was read.

Dist. Judge Grant L. Bowen set July 15 for sentencing. Dist. Atty. William Raggio said the judge must follow the jury's recom-

Defense attorney Harry Anderson said he probably will appeal, depending on whether Bean wants a chance to escape the gas chamber. He said the boy, son of an itinerant salesman, had made a second attempt on his life in Washoe County jail last Tuesday. The first try, a wrist-cutting episode in May, was disclosed by a sheriff's deputy on the witness stand during the trial which began June 24.

The attorney never refuted Bean's admission that he strangled Miss McCaskie, a native of Elgin, Scotland, raped her and then dismembered her body. But through the testimony of a San sense. Bean had pleaded innocent. Bean was caught eight days aft-

Youth Guilty In Murder Of Former Skier

RENO, Nev. (AP) — Thomas
Lee Bean faced death in the Nevada gas chamber after being convicted of first degree murder
Monday in the April 5 dismemberment-slaying of Sonja McCaskie, 24, former Olympic skier.

The 18-yaar-old high school youth, described at his trial as a rejected, unloved boy, stared at the jury foreman, Joseph Dett-ling, as the death penalty recommendation was read.

Dist. Judge Grant L. Bowen set July 15 for sentencing. Dist. Atty. William Raggio said the judge must follow the jury's recom-

Defense attorney Harry Ander-son said he probably will appeal, depending on whether Bean wants a chance to escape the gas chamber. He said the boy, son of an itinerant salesman, had made a second attempt on his life in Washoe County jail last Tuesday. The first try, a wrist-cutting episode in May, was disclosed by a sheriff's deputy on the witness stand during the trial which began June 24.

The attorney never refuted Bean's admission that he strangled Miss McCaskie, a native of Elgin, Scotland, raped her and then dismembered her body. But through the testimony of a San Francisco psychiatrist Anderson sought to prove that Bean should be acquitted because, although rational in some areas, he did not know right from wrong in a sexual sense. Bean had pleaded innocent.

Bean was caught eight days after the slaying after officers Miss McCaskie's apartment to a
